

MORNING APPEAL.

Thursday, October 21 1886

A CORNERED VILIFIER.

When the Republican campaign was opened it was charged that Mr. C. C. Stevenson had compelled his miners to accept lower rates of wages than those established by the Unions, and compelled them to board in his boarding houses and pay exorbitant rates for poor food. Mr. Stevenson, in a speech in Virginia City a few days after his nomination, publicly challenged any man in the State to personally make and substantiate such a charge. From that time to this, although the henchmen employed by Adams have raked the Comstock to find a miner who has been thus treated by Stevenson, no such person has been found, nor has such a person been found up to the present writing. The Chronicle, unable to find a single spot in Stevenson's record, has persistently bawled into the ear of the public, the charge that Stevenson publicly challenged proof of.

Still the weeks slip by, and out of the hundreds of men that are claimed by Adams' mouth piece with being the victims of Stevenson's tyranny and extortion, not a single one has yet been found who will make a public assertion to that effect over his signature.

Strange, isn't it? The Chronicle has over and over again been challenged to produce the proof, and finally, after realizing that it cannot be done, retires with a pitiful squeal to its corner, and lies there, struggling in the net of slander and misrepresentation which it has so clumsily woven about itself. It finally does out to the public the lame explanation that it has scores of men ready and anxious to make affidavits to charges made against Stevenson, but the Chronicle, out of consideration to these men, will not publish the affidavits for fear that at some future time Stevenson may wreak vengeance upon them.

The ignominious retreat of the Virginia Chronicle through a hole that would squeeze the life out of a water snake, comes rather earlier in the campaign than was expected.

A WORD OF WARNING.

While there is little to be said against the gentlemen who compose the Legislative ticket, there is one important question arising, which demands the most careful consideration at the hands of the people of this city.

Eight years ago the people of Ormsby county elected a Dolly Varden ticket and all the residents of this city recall the result. Meder was elected to the Senate, and Messrs. Davies, Gibson and Howe to the Assembly. During the session Ormsby county's Representatives sat alone shunned by both parties and not allowed to be present at any important caucus. By the election of the present Dolly Varden Legislative ticket, the same result will be reached and Ormsby county will be left out in the cold as friendless and shivering as it was 1880.

It is time that Ormsby was up and doing something for itself in the Legislature. There will be a fight against our State Prison and if we are represented by a delegation with whom no party will caucus, it means nothing less than the removal of the State Prison to Reno to be followed sooner or later by the Orphans Home and Capitol.

The coming session is a critical one and if we throw our opportunities away this city is doomed. Will old taxpayers who have property here and will business men who have interests here, allow a neutral delegation to represent her in the Legislature?

The Enterprise and Elko Independent are discussing the effect of not having a veteran soldier or a member of the Grand Army on the Republican ticket. There is a member on the ticket, Judge R. B. Biglow served in Pope's division and in Missouri, Arkansas and Kansas and is a member of McDermit Post at Winnemucca. Judge Biglow is a native of Essex county, New York, and was educated at Wisconsin. He came to Elko in 1868 and was admitted to the Bar in this State. He ran 550 ahead of his ticket last time and will be elected again.
